Dear Min + Tony, also little ones-

Just a few lines to say that all is fine and I haven't forgotten you. They're still keeping us busy and otherwise there is nothing new. The weather is still nice and warm and it looks like Spring is here. It rained a little last night but today the sun is shining again. I expect to be out again tonight.

How is everything out in Strypensville? Do you get to see Redding or any of the milk haulers. If so then tell them I said hello. You know, I'd just as soon be back there hauling the old milk cans around. But I can't help, I'm getting to see the world, even if I am sick of this part of it.

Looks like it'll be time to go fishing again. I'd sure like to go with Tony again and try my luck. Well, maybe before too long I'll be able to go again.

Mom says that Ernie is going to probably be drafted. Looks like they'll get all of the young guys around there. I only hope that Johnnie doesn't have to go. By rights he shouldn't but you can never tell.

Give all my little nieces a big hello for me and tell them that Uncle Tony sends all of them a big kiss. I'll bet that they sure are cute little shoozers.

Well, I think I'll close for now and go to chow. Be good and God bless all of you.

Lots of love from -
Tony

P.S. - Excuse the short letter. O. K.?
